

Pediatric Infectious Diseases Fellowship Opportunity-July 2021 Rochester, NY

The Pediatric ACGME Infectious Diseases Fellowship Program at the University of Rochester has an opening.

The Infectious Diseases Fellowship Program provides research training for pediatric clinician-investigators in either basic or translational research related to several areas of Infectious Diseases including infections in immunocompromised host and respiratory infections. Trainees will work with national scholars. Our 245,000 square foot Golisano Children's Hospital that provides trainees with the advantage of bedside teaching in a state of the art facility. For more information about our program please visit University of Rochester Pediatric Infectious Diseases Fellowship Program.

Jennifer Nayak, M.D.
Director, Fellowship Training Program
University of Rochester Medical Center
Rochester, NY 14642
Jennifer_Nayak@urmc.rochester.edu

