

Job Title: Pediatric Infectious Disease Physician

Brief description of the position: UF Health Regional Physicians with The Studer Family Children's Hospital at Ascension Sacred Heart in Pensacola, Florida seeks a Pediatric Infectious Disease Specialist who enjoys working with children to join an enthusiastic division. This is a growing program with an established referral base from across the Florida panhandle and southern Alabama.

The Studer Family Children's Hospital celebrated its 50th year in 2019 with the opening of a new Children's Hospital and is currently in the construction phase of adding six new Pediatric operating rooms with an expected opening date of January 2021. The Children's Hospital has a full complement of pediatric subspecialties and support programs. Through UF Health and Ascension Sacred Heart, we are staying on the leading edge of children's healthcare. Our mission is to promote health through outstanding and high-quality patient care; innovative and rigorous education in the health professions and biomedical sciences; and high-impact research across the spectrum of basic, translational and clinical investigation. The UF Health Regional Physicians Network represents the extension of our spectrum of patient-care services to regional community under the University of Florida's College of Medicine.

Pensacola is a beautiful and vibrant coastal city in the western Florida panhandle. The family-friendly city has a flourishing downtown and waterfront, numerous outdoor activities and cultural offerings, and the #1 beach in Florida according to USA Today. With a low cost of living and no state income tax, Pensacola has something to offer everyone.
