

Cleveland Clinic Children's

Pediatric Infectious Diseases

Cleveland Clinic Children's, part of one of the world's most distinguished academic medical centers, is seeking a Pediatric Infectious Diseases physician to join our 5-physician, a dedicated nurse manager, and a dedicated pharmacist team. The Center for Pediatric Infectious Diseases is a busy consultation service, evaluating healthy children with complicated infections as well as children with complex illnesses and immunocompromised conditions, including all solid organ and hematopoietic stem cell transplants. Additionally, the Center has active programs in Infection Prevention, Antimicrobial Stewardship, and a Fellowship Program. Generous research opportunities are available within the Lerner Research Institute.

The ideal candidate will have a focused area of expertise with experience and accomplishments in clinical care, teaching, and basic, translational or clinical research. Board certification in Pediatric Infectious Diseases and eligibility for licensure in Ohio are required. Candidates at all career levels will be considered.

Cleveland Clinic Children's is a tertiary referral hospital on the Cleveland Clinic main campus with more than 300 pediatric medical and surgical specialists staffing the 429 inpatient beds and 43 outpatient clinics forming the Cleveland Clinic Children's network. Per year, the network provides over 1 million outpatient visits, supports 20,000+ inpatient admissions, more than 12,700 surgeries, and accepts over 1,600 transports per year from around the nation and globe. Cleveland Clinic Children's is ranked nationally as one of the best children's hospitals by U.S. News & World Report.

Cleveland Clinic Children's physicians enjoy a collegial work environment within the framework of a large academic group practice, a competitive salary enhanced by a very attractive benefits package, and the opportunity to live in one of the nation's great cities.
